Powering-Up Your Ship

When you Retrieve a Laser Unit, the Power Pod Appears

When you capture your first laser capsule, an awesome weapon called the Power Pod appears. The Power Pod follows the path of the R-9. By attaching the pod to the front or back of your ship, you can further increase your firepower. The pod also acts as a shield, protecting your ship from attack.

If the Power Pod is linked to R-9, press Button 1 to detach. If R-9 is separated from the Power Pod, press Button 1 and they will combine. The Power Pod can also be linked from behind.

Increasing and Changing the Power Pod

You cannot use the laser weapon enhancement unless you have previously captured the Power Pod.

The R-9's laser blast varies depending upon the type of power-up which has been acquired, so it is best to use the units best suited to the particular stage or enemy power-up you are dealing with.

Playing Tips

Since each area poses different threats, and the Boss aliens at the conclusion of each round have their own strengths and weaknesses, you must learn which laser unit is best-suited for that particular area. For example, you should retrieve the Reflecting Laser (Blue Capsule) in the second round since the vulnerable blue area on top of the Boss is difficult to reach unless you have this diagonally firing weapon.

To build up the strength and size of the Power Pod, you must capture three identical power-up units. The Power Pod will not expand if you gather up different laser units.

Know when to position the Power Pod on the front of the R-9, and when to place it behind the R-9. Rearranging the ship's shape is especially vital when attacking certain Boss craft like the Battle Crusair at the end of level three. Be careful, however, and protect the exposed side of R-9 at all costs!

To inflict additional damage, hold the fire button down to store up energy in the "Beam" weapon. This will not only defeat more difficult enemies with fewer shots, it will also wipe out large numbers of lesser alien invaders with a single blow!
